iSqFt Announces Strategic Alliance with San Antonio Chapter of Associated General Contractors

Company solidifies its position as industry's leading preconstruction software

Cincinnati, OH--iSqFt, the construction industry's leading preconstruction software and service provider, has announced a strategic partnership with the San Antonio Chapter of the Associated General Contractors, or AGC. This announcement further strengthens ties with the national AGC group, which formed an exclusive relationship with iSqFt in March of 2001.

The new agreement with iSqFt offers members of the San Antonio AGC access to a number of benefits aimed at helping construction professionals work more efficiently and effectively.

For subcontractor members, iSqFt offers:

- The industry's most complete project listings
- Promotion to GCs at the moment they're inviting bids
- Daily project updates
- Digital takeoff tool for faster, more accurate takeoffs

For general contractor members, iSqFt provides:

- Free 24/7 access to documents for all bidding projects
- Access to project leads for public bidding opportunities
- Additional coverage for projects in the San Antonio market and across Texas
- A streamlined preconstruction process; spend less time bidding and win more jobs

"With its ease of use, nearly instant plan distribution, and built-in reporting, iSqFt was the obvious choice for [us]," says T.J. Rogers, Vice President of Estimating for GC Bartlett Cocke. "Providing complete sets of bidding documents to all interested subcontractors in a digital format has substantially reduced our printing expenses."

As for the longer-term implications of this partnership, Dave Conway, President and CEO of iSqFt, feels that it's an evolution of an already-strong relationship. "By adding the AGC of San Antonio we now have strong relationships in place with Austin, DFW, and Houston, covering the large population centers in Texas. We look forward to helping all of our members survive in today's tough economic environment, and thrive in tomorrow's."
