

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

iSqFt Applications Named ‘Top Products’

CINCINNATI – February 28, 2008 – iSqFt’s two core software offerings have been featured on the Constructech magazine list of Top Products for 2008. Constructech magazine covers industry trends to find the most innovative software available to the commercial construction industry today.

“The products chosen as the 2008 Constructech Top Products are innovative, successful, and some of the best of what can be utilized today,” said Mike Carrozzo, editor of Constructech magazine. “Constructech’s readers are eagerly adopting the available technology solutions in the commercial construction space.”

The magazine named the iSqFt Private Construction Office as one of the top ten ‘Trusted Products’ available to the industry while the iSqFt Internet Plan Room[®] was included as one of top six recently ‘Enhanced Products’.

Through these two core applications iSqFt provides construction professionals with tools to increase competitiveness through reduced costs and increased efficiency. The software assists them in finding opportunities and communicating and sharing information in a more efficient way, providing the industry with a forum for general contractors, specialty contractors, and suppliers to network and share opportunities.

“This recognition demonstrates the positive impact that we have had on the preconstruction efforts of thousands of commercial contractors across the country,” stated Dave Conway, iSqFt president and CEO. “And we continue to strive to improve our offerings to meet the needs of the ever-changing industry.”

The iSqFt Private Construction Office is the preconstruction management platform of choice for hundreds of general contractors across the nation, including dozens of ENR 200 firms. With superior features and a user-friendly interface it is the standard by which all others are measured. The iSqFt Internet Plan Room[®] gives industry professionals a source for a comprehensive catalog of publicly-bidding work in their area along with access to valuable negotiated opportunities from top GCs in the markets where they work.
