

Construction Connections

Event organizers iSqFt, QUOIN, the DFW Minority Business Council, and Reprographics Fort Worth were extremely pleased with the attendance at this year's Construction Connections event at the Grapevine Convention Center, which more than doubled that of last year's inaugural event.

"We were fortunate to have more than 40 of the Metroplex's leading general contractors at this year's event," said David Rearick, marketing manager of iSqFt. "They had the chance to discuss upcoming opportunities and the current commercial construction market with approximately 1000 attendees representing trades from throughout the industry."

Rearick said that the overwhelming response has the sponsors considering another event later this year, and it is a near certainty that the 3rd Annual Construction Connections event will be held again in January 2009.

"All the event sponsors would like to thank everyone involved for making Construction Connections such an outstanding opportunity for the construction industry in the region," Rearick said in closing. -bd
